Fidecum AG is undergoing a strategic reorganization and will operate under the umbrella of the Allington Investors Group going forward.

Bad Homburg, 23 February 2026

Fidecum AG is reorganizing its structures in order to focus even more strongly in future on its core competencies in fundamental company analysis and personalized client support. As part of this strategic reorientation, the company will hand back its BaFin authorization.

The Fidecum SICAV Contrarian Value Euroland Fund will continue to operate under the umbrella of the Allington Investors Group, Bad Homburg.
This will not result in any changes for investors: the fund will continue to operate under its existing structure. The two share classes, A (ISIN LU0370217092) and C (ISIN LU0379217688), will continue unchanged.
Even under the new liability umbrella, the tried-and-tested investment strategy will remain unchanged: Hans Peter Schupp will continue to manage the fund and consistently pursue the contrarian investment style that has been successful for many years.

“The ever-increasing regulatory requirements are taking up more and more of our time and resources,” explains Hans Peter Schupp, managing partner of Fidecum AG. “By working together under the umbrella structure, we will be able to pool these tasks more efficiently in future and focus our energy where it brings the greatest added value to our investors.”

As part of the reorganization, Andreas Czeschinski is moving from the Executive Board to the Supervisory Board of Fidecum AG. Klaus Kämmerer will continue to be responsible for customer support and remains available as usual to answer any enquiries on
